AS LONG AS FOLLY sits in the Mayor's chair there will be a vacancy in the Street Commissioner's office.

REPUBLICANS who protest publicly against the adoption of the Federal election bill prove that they are better patriots than partisans.

WHEN the city does its own street sprinkling the chief difficulties in the way of securing uniformly good service will be things of the past.

THE Republican leaders are exhorted to get together. The unseemly wrangle between Mr. BLAINE and his party friends is not a good start for a Congressional campaign.

If Mr. BLAINE will follow up his letter against the McKinley bill with another denouncing the Lodge force bill the country may consent to forget that he was sunstruck.

COMMODITIES exchange for commodities. If the people will get a firm grip on this fundamental proposition of political economy they will be prepared to understand the tariff question.

FEAR-ALARM FORAKER rose to the utterance of a great unchangeable truth in his speech to the Ohio Republican convention when he remarked: "We did not come out of the last contest very well." That is not eloquence, but it is fact.

OUT of five Republican papers in Philadelphia only one—the Press—heartily supports the Lodge election bill. The other four either openly oppose it or keep quiet on the subject. The editor of the Press is United States Minister to Russia.

ICE-DEALER BREEN is demonstrating that ice can be sold at half a cent per pound. He is also proving that St. Louisans want all they can get at that price. More power to Mr. BREEN's ice pick.

THE PLUMED KNIGHT with fixed lance stands in the way of McKinley in his swinging dash for party leadership. Let him beware, for his adversary is strong and wary in battle and a host of would-be champions have fallen before him.

THE combine ice-dealers assert that the newspapers are responsible for the high price of ice. Yet they say that they have all the ice they need bought at reasonable prices. It is strange that the combine men do not feel kindly towards the newspapers, but they apparently do not.

THE cooling waters, refreshing breezes and pleasant sights of the river afford delightful relief from the heat and dust of the city. The want advertisers of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH who secure this enjoyment with the full value of their money in advertising are wise.

WE should like to remind the Mayor that while his right to make himself ridiculous cannot be questioned he has no right to deprive the city of a competent street commissioner. At this time when the services of one are especially needed the wrong of the Mayor's folly is magnified.

ST. LOUIS will probably get a recount if it does not interfere with the plans of the Republican leaders concerning the apportionment bill. Otherwise she will get what can be given her without it. Strict justice is an excellent thing but does not compare in Washington just now with party supremacy.

THE local ice men insist that there is no combine in the ice business and that the dealer who is selling at 50 cents a hundred. And yet they charge uniformly double that price and the dealer who attempts to lower it is met with a threat that his ice supply will be cut off. If these are not the marks of the meanest sort of combine we do not know them.

WILL CAPITAL STAND IT?

Ever since the full purport and scope of the Lodge election bill became known there has been a strong undercurrent of hostile feeling toward it among Northern men who are interested in business ventures in the South. This feeling has hitherto manifested itself in fitful protests here and there and in an occasional reminder that the political is not the only aspect of the Southern question. But these protests and reminders are growing in force and volume. The economic aspect of the Southern question is coming into view in a way that must be very disconcerting to the prime movers in Lodge's scheme to promote discord.

They are learning what is to them, perhaps, an astonishing fact—that the Southern States are the field of industrial activity. The old South, whose one industrial method was the application of a nigger to a cotton field, has been transformed into a new South with all the complex activities of the most advanced industrial States. This is no news, but it is quite likely that it was unknown to many of the Republican leaders until they were forcibly reminded of the fact by the chorus of warnings which is now breaking on their ears.

Of course this alone would not deter men like REED and CHANDLER. The purpose of the Lodge bill is to perpetuate Republican rule and establish boshism, and REED and CHANDLER are too devoted to party to allow such considerations to influence them. But the purpose of the Republican party is to see that in all legislation the "interests of capital are fully conserved." Only by being faithful to this purpose does it fulfill the law of its being. "No legislation for us, no fat for you," is the ultimatum of the protected interests. And here the party finds itself at cross purposes. Granting that the Lodge bill would accomplish its purpose and fix the party in power for an indefinite term, it suddenly comes out that the discord it will inevitably produce would put an end to all industrial ventures and that the men most heavily interested in these ventures are among those who are the beneficiaries of legislation which they have bought with liberal subscriptions to campaign funds. Philadelphia alone has $50,000 invested, most of it in Virginia. Pittsburg is heavily interested in Alabama, while a number of United States Senators—notably Mr. SHERMAN—have large investments in various parts of the South.

In short, this method of perpetuating protection is going to cost more than it is worth. Although a few days ago it seemed probable that the Republican Senators would try to force the bill through in REED's highwayman fashion, it is now clear that some of them feel an influx of hesitation. The bosses made a miscalculation, and when the blunder is fully realized the bill may be dropped at the bidding of those in whose interest it was framed.

THE fact that the press of advertising has compelled us to issue a ten-page paper two days in succession is ample proof that the POST-DISPATCH and its advertisers are not suffering from the business malady known as midsummer dullness. In a party pledged to oppose it, which must stand as a political crime against the Ohio Democrats.

THE ex-Gov. FORAKER was enabled to relieve his partisans whoop at Cleveland with a gleam of sound rebuke to the Democratic party of Ohio is the fault of the party. What the ex-Governor said in denunciation of the election of BRUCE to the Senate must unfortunately be indorsed by the press. It was a shameless exhibition of the power of plutocracy in a party pledged to oppose it, which must stand as a political crime against the Ohio Democrats.

A Grotesque Injustice.

From the New York World.

Some of the Republican Senators appear to have a realizing sense of the grotesque injustice and impropriety of passing a law the application of which is to be decided by the petition of 100 citizens. If any laws should be absolutely equal and uniform it is those governing elections. To leave it to the partisan agents to say where a national law shall be enforced is to trample upon the principle of popular government.

REAL ESTATE NEWS.

SISTERS OF THE VISITATION CONVENT
MAKE A $25,000 PURCHASE

Their New Academy to Occupy the Block
Bound by Minerva, Page, Hamilton and De Holodiamond Avenues—M. A.
Wolf Sells to a Mysterious Buyer for $3,000 Less Than He Might Have Had.

The Sisters of the Visitation Convent, located on Cass avenue, have developed into real estate operators of considerable magnitude, and in their efforts to secure a new site for their academy have become possessed of two very valuable pieces of suburban property, one of which they will now dispose of, and evidently at a good round profit, as the place which they will sell has greatly increased in value since they bought it for $3,250 October 30, 1888.

Their latest acquisition, the site which they will undoubtedly improve for their new institution, embraces very nearly the entire block bounded by Page avenue on the south, Minerva on the north, Hamilton on the east and De Holodiamond on the west. The purchase of the greater bulk of this ground was consummated yesterday, $32,000, or about $20 a foot, below the consideration for it. Mary C. G. Miller was the grantor, and his representative, Edgar Miller, says the ground conveyed has a frontage of about 800 feet by a depth of 240 on the south side of Minerva extending east from De Holodiamond, and another piece in the same block fronting about 250 feet by a depth of 270 on the north line of Page, commanding De Holodiamond also and continuing east.

According to these figures the sisters have acquired in round numbers 1,600 feet of the Miller property. The exact dimensions, however, are not given. Mr. Miller says the dimensions are somewhat greater than what he has named, but that the price paid is a little over $20 a foot. That is certainly a good round figure for ground in that locality, much the highest price in fact that has yet been paid for any large parcel in that territory, but the sale shows his values are increasing out that way. The exact dimensions of this block is high and well situated, but the western portion takes a rapid descent from the crown of the hill into the valley traversed by the Narrow Gauge railway. The property conveyed by Mary C. G. Miller to the Sisters did not extend to the river, but to within 100 feet of the Minerva avenue line, but it is understood that the Sisters have acquired that corner also, and that they have also bought the hill top property on Minerva and Minerva avenues. In the same block, with a frame house on it, for $9,000, the sisters have yet to buy the fifty feet adjoining the dwelling site on Page avenue, and it is said that they are now negotiating for it, their desire being to have a continuous line of the exclusive ownership of the entire block.

Thus, F. Farrelly, who negotiated the purchase of the Cabanne place property when the sisters now desire to buy it, says they will certainly build on their new site. At yet no architect has been engaged to make plans, but the Sisters are in the process of commencing shortly. This will be very agreeable news to Cabanne place property owners, as they are anxious to have a definite location of a convent in the midst of a residence place selected by them and handsomely improved for houses. The property owned by the Sisters is the hill top property, well improved with sewers, tiled streets and granite walks. It fronts 270 feet on the south side of Minerva, and 250 feet on Clemens avenue, and 200 feet on both the north and south sides of Clemens. It is being located east of Ball. Mr. Farrelly says the ground is in bulk at $60,000, but will be sold off in parcels to suit, and that the principal reason for the high price is the location, and the frontage on Cabanne place. This in consequence with the increased value of the property, the sale of which will afford a handsome profit, has induced the Sisters to order the new buildings, was what induced the Sisters to buy elsewhere and offer their first purchase for sale.

HE LOOKED TOO LATE.

The news of proceedings to close Third street, between Franklin and Fair, will give a view to utilizing the space in connection with a contiguous property for a Union Depot for the Merchants Bridge Terminal Co. as the facts appear. The property in question has developed the use of another piece of property in that locality to-day. Marcus A. Wolf was the grantor. He says he sold $20,000 feet of his property to the Sisters, and that he would have sold the corner a year ago for $5,000. The party who bought first offered $7,500, which Mr. Wolf rejected, saying he would not sell it to any one but the Sisters. The man went away. He came back again and took the property for $10,000. He said he did not "realize" Mr. Wolf. "I thought I would go up that way and see what was going on and when I did I was surprised to find my old building was the only one left in the block; it had been cleared away. It was plain for me to see that the railroad company, or the city, were to get it just as easily as $8,000, but it is all right anyhow, I got a good price for the ground."

On the subject of the new building from Peter Kerna 16x45 feet of ground on the south side of Delmar avenue between Sarah and Whittier at $60 a foot.

Mrs. Greaver's Sensational Divorce Suit—Counselor Mills at Maryville.

KANSAS CITY, July 17.—A suit for divorce and alimony was filed yesterday by Mrs. David A. Greaver, the wife of a wealthy cattleman of this city. Mr. Greaver left the city yesterday for Texas on cattle business. He is 41 years of age, while his wife is 25, and they have been married five years. She charges that he has been intimate with other women and has on many occasions treated her with the utmost cruelty, sleeping with a butcher-knife under her pillow, and cutting it out at night to frighten her. She asks a decree of separation and $20,000 alimony.

MAJ. JOHN ANDRE'S SWORD.

A Fisherman on the Passaic River Finds It Buried.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

NEW YORK, July 17.—Henry Reipe keeps a boat-house and a fisherman's resort on the Passaic River at Avondale; just behind his residence is a little vine-yard. While hoeing among his vines a few days ago he came upon a long, narrow piece of rusted metal. After cleaning off the gravel, dirt and mud he saw that he had an officer's sword of Revolutionary pattern. The sword was of the regulation pattern, and had a slightly cushioned hilt. It was stuck almost fast in a metal scabbard. Excepting about six inches from the hilt it was in good condition. He held it over it with cleaning powder and was rewarded for his pains with the discovery of the inscription on the scabbard: "Major John Andre." There is no other inscription or mark on it. Maj. Andre is said to have traversed all the ground in the neighborhood of Reipe's place, and the sword is believed to be the one which the old sword once swung by his side. Reipe says the sword lay about one foot below the surface and six feet from the river shore.

The latest acquisition, the site which they will undoubtedly improve for their new institution, embraces very nearly the entire block bounded by Page avenue on the south, Minerva on the north, Hamilton on the east and De Holodiamond on the west. The purchase of the greater bulk of this ground was consummated yesterday, $32,000, or about $20 a foot, below the consideration for it. Mary C. G. Miller was the grantor, and his representative, Edgar Miller, says the ground conveyed has a frontage of about 800 feet by a depth of 240 on the south side of Minerva extending east from De Holodiamond, and another piece in the same block fronting about 250 feet by a depth of 270 on the north line of Page, commanding De Holodiamond also and continuing east.

According to these figures the sisters have acquired in round numbers 1,600 feet of the Miller property. The exact dimensions, however, are not given. Mr. Miller says the dimensions are somewhat greater than what he has named, but that the price paid is a little over $20 a foot. That is certainly a good round figure for ground in that locality, much the highest price in fact that has yet been paid for any large parcel in that territory, but the sale shows his values are increasing out that way. The exact dimensions of this block is high and well situated, but the western portion takes a rapid descent from the crown of the hill into the valley traversed by the Narrow Gauge railway. The property conveyed by Mary C. G. Miller to the Sisters did not extend to the river, but to within 100 feet of the Minerva avenue line, but it is understood that the Sisters have acquired that corner also, and that they have also bought the hill top property on Minerva and Minerva avenues. In the same block, with a frame house on it, for $9,000, the sisters have yet to buy the fifty feet adjoining the dwelling site on Page avenue, and it is said that they are now negotiating for it, their desire being to have a continuous line of the exclusive ownership of the entire block.

Thus, F. Farrelly, who negotiated the purchase of the Cabanne place property when the sisters now desire to buy it, says they will certainly build on their new site. At yet no architect has been engaged to make plans, but the Sisters are in the process of commencing shortly. This will be very agreeable news to Cabanne place property owners, as they are anxious to have a definite location of a convent in the midst of a residence place selected by them and handsomely improved for houses.

The property owned by the Sisters is the hill top property, well improved with sewers, tiled streets and granite walks. It fronts 270 feet on the south side of Minerva, and 250 feet on both the north and south sides of Clemens.

It is of being located east of Ball. Mr. Farrelly says the ground is in bulk at $60,000, but will be sold off in parcels to suit, and that the principal reason for the high price is the location, and the frontage on Cabanne place.

This in consequence with the increased value of the property, the sale of which will afford a handsome profit, has induced the Sisters to buy elsewhere and offer their first purchase for sale.

HE LOOKED TOO LATE.

The news of proceedings to close Third street, between Franklin and Fair, will give a view to utilizing the space in connection with a contiguous property for a Union Depot for the Merchants Bridge Terminal Co. as the facts appear. The property in question has developed the use of another piece of property in that locality to-day. Marcus A. Wolf was the grantor. He says he sold $20,000 feet of his property to the Sisters, and that he would have sold the corner a year ago for $5,000. The party who bought first offered $7,500, which Mr. Wolf rejected, saying he would not sell it to any one but the Sisters. The man went away. He came back again and took the property for $10,000. He said he did not "realize" Mr. Wolf. "I thought I would go up that way and see what was going on and when I did I was surprised to find my old building was the only one left in the block; it had been cleared away. It was plain for me to see that the railroad company, or the city, were to get it just as easily as $8,000, but it is all right anyhow, I got a good price for the ground."

On the subject of the new building from Peter Kerna 16x45 feet of ground on the south side of Delmar avenue between Sarah and Whittier at $60 a foot.

TO SEE SALLY AND DICK.

Mrs. Jane Jones, the Steiway on the steamer Teutonic.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, July 17.—Among the immigrants who landed yesterday at the large office was a female steamer girl, who crossed the ocean in the White Star steamer Teutonic. She was a tall, matronly looking woman and was well dressed for one passing through the large office. She gave her name as Mrs. Jane Jones, and said that she was about 50 years old. Her home is near Queenstown and her husband is an old sailor and a pensioner of the British Government. A few years ago her father died and she sent him a letter to the late Father Riordan, who found a good situation for her. The girl wrote home to him that she had a good situation and had been promoted to the White Star. The letter was addressed to the Teutonic. When she was about to leave she sent a telegram for her ticket. Although she had neither ticket nor money the purser was not harsh with me.

"Sure," he said, "but help but treat me decently." "Because I am respectable."

During the voyage she was treated as well as the other immigrant women. Captain Olivens directed that she should be detained at the large office while he endeavored to find either Sally or Dick.

CRUEL METHODS.

The Treatment of Children in Rhode Island Reform Schools.

Postscript to the Post-Dispatch.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 17.—Following upon the investigation of cruel methods of the management of the children in the State Home and School are some ugly charges against the conduct of the Sockanet School for Boys, which is a reform school under charge of the State Board of Charities and Correction, to which juvenile male offenders are sentenced by the lower courts. The master first became liable when the name of Charles Marbury was made known. He was an insubordinate lad and the supervisor, H. N. Becket, kept him two days in a dark room, and when he was released was naked, tied to a chair, and left to starve. Other inmates are alleged to have been punished by being forced to stand outdoors in their shirt-sleeves in winter, and the Board of Charities and Correction will probably have occasion to look into these stories at the meeting on Saturday.

MISSOURI WOODLANDS.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF THE LUMBERING INTEREST DURING THE YEAR.

Great Infus of Northwestern Lumbermen and Increase in the Number of Sawmills—Advantages of Missouri as a Timber State—Characteristics of the Forests and Timber.

THE extent to which the lumber interest of this State has been developed within the present year is not at all appreciated by most people here," said Simon Runnels, formerly of Manistee, Mich., but at present a resident of Neosho, Mo. "It is strange that the fine forests are neglected, and the fact that Missouri has thousands of acres of excellent timber land that until recently were considered to be worth little or nothing, the wood on which is worth millions of dollars. I have been in the lumber business for nearly forty years, having had experience in Maine, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, and believe that at present for a man with a small amount of capital, Missouri offers better opportunities than any other State in the Union.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

"All through the hilly regions adjacent to the Ozarks, especially in southern part of the State, there is an immense amount of excellent timber, as yet practically untouched. The country is admirably suited for saw mills of small size, as there are water courses everywhere, and the transportation problem, always an important one in broken country, can be very much simplified by the erection of cheap mills, while the numerous railroads give access to St. Louis at a low rate of freight. The large number of cutters and sawyers seen the advantages offered and have secured control of thousands of acres of woodland, which they are preparing to work. I myself know of seventeen sawmills now in process of construction in the southern and southeastern portion of the State alone, and just over the line in Arkansas a great amount of land has been taken up. Some of the most valuable and apparently valuable classes of timber are now being cut, and it is to be expected that the lumbering industry will reach a point where the trees can be turned into lumber. Of course for pine Missouri, no such state as Michigan was, but the forests have been largely cut off, with the exception of a few districts controlled by large corporations, and thousands of small lumbermen and independent lumber trade are seeking other fields, among which Missouri is one of the favorite localities.

ADVANTAGES OF MISSOURI LUMBER.
"Missouri has the advantage of being free from twists and knots, and the case with that of some other States, but the timber is peculiarly close and dense. It is harder and more durable than that of the Michigan peninsula. This is peculiarly the case in the peninsula, where the timber is not so good, and it will outlast any that I know of, although it is not likely to be either very broad or very long. But a great advantage is that there is no such timber as that of the Michigan peninsula. # THE POST-DISPATCH-PAGES 9 AND 10.

ST. LOUIS, THURSDAY EVENING, JULY 17, 1890.

STILL SELLING CHEAP.

THE ICE COMBINE SCHEDULE IGNORED AND PRICES CUT.

Another Great Rush at the Union Market
This Morning.—The Possibility of Selling
Ice at Half Price Clearly Demonstrated —Scenes at the Half-a-Cent-a-Pound Ice Stand.

W HERE is the man who is selling half a cent?" asked a man at the Union Market. "I am about 8 o'clock this morning." He was directed to stand No. 25, which was not yet open, and he looked around it impatiently. Before long he had several partners in his watch, and when

Mr. Breen arrived at 5:30 he found a score of buyers waiting for him. He got the door of the ice box open as soon as possible and sold ice as fast as he and his help could weight it. A man with a sack took 100 pounds and started off with it in the direction of Franklin road. "He runs a confectionery and ice cream parlor near Grand and Easton," explained Mr. Breen. "He was down yesterday, and says there is very little wastage on the trip. Several others come as far or farther, and if they get on the shady side of the car, they needn't lose very much by melting."

The butchers crowded round rather impatiently and the four assistants at the anti-combine stand had to work till the perspiration ran down their faces and bare chests and arms. It looks very cool to work out, but dragging, lifting and weighing chunks of frozen comfort as heavy as 200 or 300 pounds is not cool work by any means. Mr. Breen booked the orders methodically and lent a hand to keep down arrears of delivery. When the fishermen tried to make up in the extreme, he stuck to his stand and managed to keep their customers going and to satisfy the retail demand as well.

Between 6 and 8 was the busiest time, for there was a perfect fusilage of 5, 10, 15 and 25 cent orders and the tanks that were filled the more the better to be sure of getting the conditions of men, women and children were represented and so varied was the class of customers that constantly increasing trade seems certain. Quite a number of men who had been working all night called for a lump of ice to take home.

It is a great relief to the men, women and children in their adopted resolutions. Neatness is their attitude.

Clayton, Mo. — Mr. Geo. Antenreith, who has been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time past will leave in a few days for Michigan, accompanied by his wife, hoping to be benefited by lake breezes.

Excessive preparations are being made for the county fair at Creve Coeur Lake. The enterprise will doubtless be a success.

The farmers and laborers in their recent meetings have decided to stand by the anti-combine pro and con in their adopted resolutions. Neatness is their attitude.

Kain is much needed in this vicinity by the farmers.

CONFIDENT KILRAIN.

HE BELIEVES HE CAN WHIP ANY FIGHTER IN THE WORLD.

Jake Discusses Himself in Plain American English—The Browns Annihilate the Veterans Jim Whitney—A Demand for the Abolishment of Dangerous Steeplechasing—Racing, Base Ball and Other Sports.

JAKE KILRAIN was in Cincinnati Tuesday to have a boxing match against him by Detective John T. Norris for $200 for services rendered the pugilist on the way to the battle-ground to fight Sullivan. Kilrain claimed the services consisted in chasing him around the country to arrest him. A compromise was effected in the case. It is said that Kilrain has entirely discarded the cocky accent which he contracted as severely during a brief visit to England before he met Sullivan. Jake still believes he is the greatest fighter on earth, though nobody else thinks so.

"It may seem conceited for me to say it, but I honestly believe I can whip any man in the world. This is not idle boasting. It comes from the fact that I have won every fight I have ever had."

Sullivan won the fight in Elkhorn, Miss., but he did not win me. So help me God, I am not telling the truth. I am not the sportsman that I am, but I saw Donovan had the right. He had no right to do it. I did not want him to. I would have given him a chance to do it, but I saw Hayes Sullivan would. I think he would have quit in a round or two more. Donovan had not passed the line.

"Do you think he beat him now?"

"Do it? Well, I should say not. I only wish him a chance to fight him again. I will fight him again, and I will beat him. Hayes Sullivan is a good boxer, and I will beat him again."

The danger of these steeplechases with improperly shod horses was shown yesterday. The last race was a steeplechase and three fell before the chase was ended. While making the water-jump both the stirrups of the horse were broken, and the horse fell, however, but at the second jump thereafter the horse went down, fortunately without severe injury to horse or jockey, raising the water-jump to a standing when he made the jump. He was unshamed, knocking on a board, and turned his horse upside down, and hopped up and landed inverted internally.

At the last jump Schoolmaster fell, both he and his jockey, Fessney, escaping without being injured.

"Do you think you will ever get another fight with him?"

"That is doubtful. I can get back again now for $20,000. I think Hayes Sullivan is a good boxer, and I will beat him again."

Sullivan had met him in New Orleans, asking if Kilrain could hold twenty-four hours. I at once replied that I would not just as long as it took to get him out of his way. Why, I court another meeting."

"Do you think you will ever get another fight with him?"

"That is doubtful. I can get back again now for $20,000. I think Hayes Sullivan is a good boxer, and I will beat him again."

"To be candid, I do not think they will. I do not think either one of them cares about it. They are only looking out for reputation."

"How will the row between Sullivan and Muldoon end?"

"That don't know. One thing you can rest assured of is that Muldoon is not afraid to meet him. Sullivan treated Muldoon and Hayes with contempt, and when he left New York he should have stayed there and helped his seconds through."

Yesterday's Matinee.

Third race, one mile—Neila T., first; Maggie R., second; Vashti, third. Time, 1:55.

Jones Langford, owner of the Castle Stable, has concluded to sell his horses. He is a man of means, and has extensive real estate in Philadelphia, and is also president of a bank, and so thorough a business man that he has not sufficient time to look after the management of his stable. He leaves the first jurt as his horses are coming into winning form, and the stable is to be run by a manager who has placed W. H. Williams as his successor.

NEW YORK, July 17.—The attempt to review cross-country racing at Brighton Beach has thus far been attended with some disastrous results. The borden upon the track to be run the way to the battle-ground to fight Sullivan. Kilrain claimed the services consisted in chasing him around the country to arrest him. A compromise was effected in the case. It is said that Kilrain has entirely discarded the cocky accent which he contracted as severely during a brief visit to England before he met Sullivan. Jake still believes he is the greatest fighter on earth, though nobody else thinks so.

"It may seem conceited for me to say it, but I honestly believe I can whip any man in the world. This is not idle boasting. It comes from the fact that I have won every fight I have ever had."

Sullivan won the fight in Elkhorn, Miss., but he did not win me. So help me God, I am not telling the truth. I am not the sportsman that I am, but I saw Donovan had the right. He had no right to do it. I did not want him to. I would have given him a chance to do it, but I saw Hayes Sullivan would. I think he would have quit in a round or two more. Donovan had not passed the line.

"Do you think he beat him now?"

"Do it? Well, I should say not. I only wish him a chance to fight him again. I will fight him again, and I will beat him. Hayes Sullivan is a good boxer, and I will beat him again."

The danger of these steeplechases with improperly shod horses was shown yesterday. The last race was a steeplechase and three fell before the chase was ended. While making the water-jump both the stirrups of the horse were broken, and the horse fell, however, but at the second jump thereafter the horse went down, fortunately without severe injury to horse or jockey, raising the water-jump to a standing when he made the jump. He was unshamed, knocking on a board, and turned his horse upside down, and hopped up and landed inverted internally.

At the last jump Schoolmaster fell, both he and his jockey, Fessney, escaping without being injured.

"Do you think you will ever get another fight with him?"

"That is doubtful. I can get back again now for $20,000. I think Hayes Sullivan is a good boxer, and I will beat him again."

"To be candid, I do not think they will. I do not think either one of them cares about it. They are only looking out for reputation."

"How will the row between Sullivan and Muldoon end?"

"That don't know. One thing you can rest assured of is that Muldoon is not afraid to meet him. Sullivan treated Muldoon and Hayes with contempt, and when he left New Orleans, asking if Kilrain could hold twenty-four hours. I at once replied that I would not just as long as it took to get him out of his way. Why, I court another meeting."
